

BRUTAL ACTS OF A BRYAN MOB

Gross Indignity Offered to Secretary Carey
While at Oxington.

KENTUCKIANS RESENT THE INSULT

Vile Epithets Shouted in His Ear
Eggs and Cigar Butts Hurlled
at Him by the Free Syllabites

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—The insult to the secretary of the United States treasury, John G. Carlisle, by men of his native state and city is the leading topic of conversation today. While accounts differ as to the degree of brutality manifested by those in the hall and on the street around the building, there is no dispute as to the bitterness of the feeling manifested.

in the hall by his friends in the hope that the outside crowd would disperse, but as soon as Carlisle discovered this he insisted on going out immediately. Then a police escort was provided and by plain force passage of the street was obtained. Vile epithets were then showered at the secretary, and one man, John Fagan, threw a lighted cigar in his face and stepped as if to pick up a more formidable missile. He was promptly seized by the police, but was discharged, no one preferring a charge. Secretary Carlisle, on reaching Mr. Helm's door, thanked the chief of police for the protection afforded.

Secretary Carlisle found himself the center of widespread attention today in consequence of the gross indignity offered him during his speech on Thursday afternoon at the Old Fellows' ball in Covington. The first Indications came in calls from friends and neighbors anxious to assure him of their ostentation of the outrage. Later messages bearing the names of prominent families feeling existed in other portions of the city. At length Mr. Carlisle was obliged to deny himself to callers to enable him to get the rest he needed and to attend to his correspondence. The feeling in Covington, Cincinnati, ran high as the matter was discussed.

The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, regardless of political partisanship, called a special meeting and appointed a committee to give Mr. Carlisle a most urgent invitation to visit the Chamber of Commerce which he turned to Washington. The feeling that prompted the meeting was that the members wanted an opportunity to show the secretary of the treasury the high regard in which he is held by the Chamber of Commerce. In addition to this, a large delegation of gold democrats from Walnut Hill called to urge the secretary to give them an address and to allow them to testify their appreciation by giving him a becoming hearing. To all requests for speeches Mr. Carlisle was obliged to give a refusal, as the five speeches he has promised to give in Kentucky fully occupy all the time he can spare from his public du-

Speaking of last night's occurrence the secretary regarded it as more than an accidental occurrence. In his opinion it was an organized mob. "I did not know during my speech that any such thing had been done. Of course I saw the disorder in the hall. It came from a lot of men that had gathered in the rear of the hall. The body of the house was decent and well behaved, indeed many ladies were present. I heard also the noise in the street, but did not know what it was. I did not speak to the mob but once. I saw it did no good. I was sitting in ignorance of what was going on outside. I saw that my friends seemed to be advised of it. They kept detaining me in various ways until at last I asked why we did not go. Then they told me that a crowd was gathered outside the hall and they were waiting until it should disperse. When I heard that I said I was going and we started. When I got to the door I saw the crowd there. They had been waiting purposely there all the time. There was a rush and it was with great difficulty that we got out of the building and along the streets. They followed us until within a square of Mr. Helm's house, when the yelling formed a line and

"The gathering outside the hall, the following of those 200 or 200 men for several squares through the streets was not a mere accident; it was an organized affair."

To a wish expressed that better treatment awaited him at the speeches he is yet to make, he replied: "It makes little difference to me. It is an illustration of what may be expected everywhere if the principles of the Chicago platform prevail. Personal indignity and even personal violence will hurt those who attempt it more than it can harm me."

The secretary left tonight in order to meet his engagement at Bowling Green, Ky., tomorrow.

MARCUS DALY EXPLAINS A RUMOR
Resignation of Directors of Anaconda Mine Purely Technical.
BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 23.—During the day this community has been excited over reports that Marcus Daly, manager, Francis E. Sargeant, secretary, and William Scallon, counsel of the Anaconda company, had been requested by telegraph from New York to send in their resignations at once. Marcus Daly, when asked about it, said it was a fact that the resignations had been asked for, but it was usual this time of the year for a majority of the board in New York to resign. The board then temporarily organized in Montana to transact the year's business and declare the dividends. Louis Haggin brought the resignations of three directors from New York.

directors were from New York along with his own appointment as temporary director. He organized the board, duly voting his own and three directors' stock, electing himself, Scallion and Sargeant, thus forming a majority of the board. The business was then transacted, and by oversight Haggin went away without the resignations of the three temporary directors. He wired for the resignations as directors, which gave rise to the rumor.
